THE SNAKE TREATY.—Superintendent Huntington has returned from Southeastern Oregon, whither he went nearly two months ago, for the purpose of accomplishing a treaty with the marauding Snake Indians, and thus effecting the pacification of that part of the country and opening it to settlement. We had an interview with him yesterday, and obtained some interesting information, which will be as new to most of our readers as to ourself. The Snake Indians which live in Oregon are divided into three tribes or bands, of which Pauline, We-yow-we-wa and How-lark are chiefs. The first named is the principal war chief, and has usually been the leader in the hostilities committed in all the region north of the forty-second parallel. The other tribes have been hostile, and have by no means abstained from murder or pillage upon unprotected parties of whites passing through their country, but they have recognized Pauline as their chief, par excellence. Mr. Huntington describes him as a man of very powerful physique, evidently of intellect more developed than ordinary Indians, and exhibiting stern determination, energy and ferocity in every lineament. He has never mixed much with whites, and shows plainly enough that he has learned none of the arts or vices which savages usually pick up by contact with civilization, but his native shrewdness was apparent at the Council. He is altogether a fair specimen of a "perfect savage." His band number about 300 souls, of whom between 80 and 100 are warriors. We-yow-we-wa is a half-brother of Pauline, and his tribe are more intimately connected with Pauline's than either of them are with How-lark's; their language is identical, while that of the How-lark tribe is different, although similar. We-yow-we-wa is a sort of civil chief, older than Pauline, and more respected for his wisdom, but having less reputation for prowess. His tribe is about as numerous as the others. How-lark is a "medicine man"—a prophet indeed—but also distinguished for bravery. He was the leader of the raid which was made by the Snakes on the Warm Springs Reservation in 1859, when the whites were all driven off, the Agency building entirely burnt, and a large number of cattle and horses driven off. His tribe is larger than either of the others, and is possessed of more horses. Pauline's country lies upon the Upper Des Chutes, Crooked River and the upper waters of John Day's River. We-yow-we-wa is located farther east, occupying the waters of Malheur, Burnt River and Harney Lake. How-lark's haunts are south and west, Goose Lake, Owyhee and Humboldt—but the nomadic habits and common purposes of all these Indians render it difficult to assign a particular locality to them. Thus, How-lark is found plundering the Warm Springs Agency, or marauding on the Canyon City road, and shortly after Pauline is heard of on the Humboldt, committing depredations on the emigrants on the Yreka road. There is, besides these mentioned, another very small band, who live on the head of the North Fork of John Day's, the Grand Ronde and Powder Rivers, dodging from one hiding place to another, to escape the miners who are thronging to that country. They are known among other Indians as "Horse Eaters," a name given them because they always eat the horses they buy or steal, and never keep them to ride as others do. They are said to number less than twenty warriors. Pauline's tribe was the only one represented at the treaty, and only about forty of his principal men were present. They came in very slow, well armed, and with evident fear that it was only a scheme to kill them off. They soon, however, became convinced that our intentions were pacific, and a way to the treaty was easy. The stipulations of the agreement are that the whole tribe are to remove [illegible] to the vicinity of Fort Klamath, and to remain there in future, being confederated with the Klamath and Modoc tribes, who were located upon a Reservation there last year. The government is to pay them annuities of two thousand dollars per year for the next ten years. (These sums are much less than those we published yesterday, copied from the Sentinel; our figures are the correct ones.) All the lands owned by the tribe,—and it is large enough for a moderate sized State,—are ceded to the United States. The prisoners, whether white or friendly Indians, held by them are to be given up. Mr. Huntington does not credit the report that there are whites among them, however. [illegible] were sent to both the other tribes, and it is confidently expected that they will all be assembled at Fort Klamath before the setting in of winter. If these expectations are realized the danger of Indian depredations is over, and the vast region south of the Blue mountains and east of the Cascades, will be opened to settlement. It is known to be rich in mineral wealth, and contains a large amount of excellent agricultural land. We regard the movement, if as successful as now appears probable, as one of great importance to our State, and especially the eastern portion of it. We shall have more to say on this subject hereafter.—Mountaineer.

NO APPRENTICESHIP SLAVERY IN MARYLAND.—The Court of Appeals in Maryland, Chief-Justice Bowie delivering the opinion, dismissed the petition of Samuel S. Coston of Somerset county, to have reversed the judgment of the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, in the habeas corpus case, wherein Judge Bond ordered the discharge of certain negro children who had been indentured to said Coston by the Orphans' Court of Somerset county for a certain number of years. Judge Bond is thus sustained in his decision, that the present constitution of the State does not permit former slave-owners to retain under the guise of apprenticeship the odious features of the discarded system of slavery. This case will furnish a precedent for the adjustment of cases of a similar character which may be expected to present themselves in the late slave States.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

TUESDAY MORNING AUGUST 29 1865

Prices in the East

Two or three days ago we published an article wherein it was stated that prices in the East had been steadily declining since the termination of the war, and that nearly all kinds of goods are now vastly cheaper than they were some months since. Some we find are disposed to quest in the correctness of this statement. We can assure such that we did not speak unadvisedly. It is quite easy to prove the truth of what we then said, and to show these parties that they are not the only persons who can rightly claim to have a knowledge of the facts, we shall proceed to fortify the position we assumed, with an array of figures drawn from a comparison of the prices which prevailed in New York on the first of January last and those now ruling there. We take our figures from the report of one of the best commercial papers in New York. It is worth while to notice the difference between the prices of January and July.

And first of the wholesale Dry Goods market. We are going to mention some of these things in detail in order that we may not seem, by dealing in mere generalities, to avoid the precise points in question.

Brown Sheetings in the New York market on the first of January last were sold at prices varying from 31 to 62 cents according to quality. Precisely the same descriptions of goods were sold on the first of July at 23 to 32 cents. Last winter the best Prints were held at 42 cents; on the first of July they were sold at 25. The best Bleached Goods in January were worth 65; on the first of July they were held at 45 cents. Ticks, Brown Drills and other staple dry goods have, of course declined correspondingly in the New York market. It is not deemed necessary to pursue this scale of prices further. The foregoing will suffice for these classes of goods.

Rio Coffee sold last winter in New York at 42 cents. On the first of July it was held at 22½. Havana Sugar was worth 26 cents in January; in July it was sold at 16. Provisions of every kind have declined in the same proportion. Pork has receded from $40 to $24 per barrel. Flour has dropped from $12 to $7. But these examples will suffice for commodities of this class.

Drugs have undergone a similar reduction in price. We have compared the present price of about one hundred articles in this line with the rates of last January, and we find that there has been a decline of fully 33 per cent. Not more than one article on the whole list which we examined is now held as high as it was last January. Wines and Liquors have not declined materially because of the high duties and excises that have to be paid upon them.

Iron, Lead, Zinc and Copper, and all articles manufactured from them, have fallen greatly in price. The decline in these commodities during the period we are considering, was from 25 to 73 per cent. After a careful inspection of the prices current, we are persuaded that few classes of goods, and perhaps none, can be named, which have not gone down as rapidly as the currency has appreciated. It will be borne in mind that the prices we have quoted were based on paper and not on gold.

We might extend this comparison of prices indefinitely, but what we have already given will suffice. Goods have been cheapening at the East ever since the close of the war, and, as we stated the other day, the process is still going on. These facts, taken in connection with the circumstance that many kinds of goods are advancing rather than declining on this coast, shows conclusively that there is a combination in San Francisco to keep prices up. As for ourselves, we import very little, and our market is, of necessity, governed almost entirely by that of San Francisco. But we do not want to be told that goods are still as high as ever at the East, because the statement is not true. The fallacy of the story is too palpable to deceive any one who chooses to inquire into the matter for himself. It is not to be expected that commodities here will fall in price as rapidly as they have done, and are doing, in New York but it is at least to be hoped that the people of the Pacific States will soon begin to derive some advantage from the decline of goods in the Eastern market. If they do not, they will certainly have grievous cause to complain against those who are combined to oppress them. We do not see how it is possible for any one here to shut his eyes and understanding, to the fact that this combination exists. The people of our State had better endeavor to meet it and to defeat the purposes it has in view, than to aid it by suffering themselves, through their own persistent blindness, to remain its victims.

How the Rebel Army was Obtained.—The Galveston, Texas, Bulletin says:

Many of our youth have spent the last four years of their lives in the army when they should have been at school. In many cases their education had just commenced; in very few was it any thing like finished. To all such school instruction should at once be made available. If they or their friends are unable to pay the expenses of their tuition they should be aided. Every patriot and philanthropist will see and appreciate the importance of these suggestions. But who will act on them? Will ministers of the pulpit? Will parents give prompt attention to the matter in reference to their own children?

By this it is seen that mere school boys were dragged into the rebel armies to aid in carrying out the schemes of traitorous leaders. General Grant's figure, "that the rebels had robbed both the cradle and the grave," does not appear to be overwrought. No more remorseless tyranny than that of the rebel government has ever been witnessed. We could almost wish that those who cry "oppression," among us, had been compelled to live in the South since 1861 in order that they might have learned what tyranny really can do.

Constitutional Lawyers.—Some weeks since a gentleman whose residence is in this city, returned from Idaho where he had been sojourning for some months. A friend here made some inquiries of him respecting the business of Idaho, the character and disposition of its people, &c. The gentleman answered his interrogator by saying that Idaho Territory had a pleasant climate, an active business and was a good place to make money, but as for the people about nine tenths of them were full fledged Constitutional lawyers right from Missouri! This statement of the case seemed very satisfactory. No further explanations were thought necessary.

The Reason. The Review says that the Judges south of the Calapooia and east of the Cascade mountains, have more than double the amount of labor to perform than the ones in the center and asks us if we do not know that this is a fact. We must protest that we were not aware of it. But as the Review says the Districts it designates are "Democratic" the fact, if true, that more judicial business, particularly of a criminal nature, is transacted in them than elsewhere doubtless depends upon this circumstance.

An Oregon Copperhead paper whose name is not fit to be mentioned in connection with those whom it habitually reviles calls Col Baker, chief of the national Detective Police "the blood hound of the War Department." This appellation is given him because of the energy and sagacity he displayed in tracking out Booth and the other assassins of Mr Lincoln. It is not a little remarkable that many of the Copperheads constantly traduce every person who aided in bringing these villains to justice.

DATES TO AUGUST 21ST.

Fight Between Firemen in New York—General News

New York, Aug 21.—At a fire last night in this city a fearful encounter took place between Engine Companies 6 and 41, in which pistols, knives and bludgeons were freely used. One man was killed, four were shot and a large number were wounded. The police have taken possession of the Engine Houses of both Companies. Twelve arrests have been made.

The Richmond correspondent of the Tribune states that the recent action of the Government in ignoring the claims is having a salutary effect. It is estimated that there are 100,000 negroes in the Peninsula who have followed our armies during the war. Orders have been issued to muster out seven more regiments. It is intimated that only enough military force has been kept in the State to preserve order in Virginia. The Chief of the mission agency has been broken up.

The Matamoras correspondent of the Tribune states: It was reported that Gen Douglas would march north with from 6,000 to 10,000 men. It was also reported that in a conversation Minister Bellay stated that if trouble occurred with the United States the French would throw 6,000 men on the Rio Grande.

The Times special dispatch states that at a recent public meeting in Charles county, Md., a negro, for hissing a speaker who endorsed the Union, was beaten by a large number of citizens, including among them a Magistrate named Gr. Mudd, brother of the conspirator Mudd. Another Magistrate subsequently sent the beaten negro to jail for attempting to defend himself. Gen Schofield has been granted two years leave of absence.

From Europe—The Atlantic Cable.

Farther Point, Aug 20.—The Belgian, from Liverpool, Aug 10th, and Londonderry, Aug 11th, has arrived. The condition of the Atlantic Cable was unchanged. No news has been received of the Great Eastern or her consort. At an extraordinary meeting of the Atlantic Telegraph Cable Company held in London, August 9th, it was resolved to convert the preference shares into consolidated one per cent preferred stock and to issue additional shares to the extent of £80,000 to complete and commence to lay down a second. Negotiations had commenced in London for a new Brazilian loan of four millions sterling.

The following is a summary of the news by the City of Baltimore:

The Daily News says there will be no further payment of interest or principal of the Confederate loan.

The Times highly eulogizes Gen Sherman for his modest speech at St. Louis.

The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce has memorialized the Postmaster General to have the Cunard steamers sail on Friday instead of Saturday.

The Paris correspondent of the London Star says the popular subscription of ten centimes for a gold medal for Mrs Lincoln is still progressing. There were 2,500 subscribers. A committee was appointed to raise the number to 100,000.

It was rumored in Paris that reinforcements to the extent of 60,000 troops was on the point of being sent to Mexico—30,000 from France, and 30,000 from Algeria.

The illness of the King of Spain had assumed a more serious aspect.

The cholera was still spreading at Constantinople.

California News.

San Francisco, August 28.—A girl committed suicide this morning by jumping into the water in the rear of Rankin's powder house.

The will of the late James Nisbet leaves a legacy of five thousand dollars to Mrs. Almira Hopkins, and divides the remainder of his property between his brother and sister.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday last the assays made at the mint in this city numbered over 1,500 or about 500 a day; this has never been exceeded and probably never equalled before.

General McDowell has ordered that the Panama pirates be sent over to San Quentin on Monday next.

Thomas Byrnes, indicted for the murder of Chas T. Hill is on trial to-day.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company's new steamship Montana sailed from New York for San Francisco on the 20th inst.

A private dispatch from New York gives gold Aug 22d at 143½ and sterling exchange at 109½ for bankers' bills, which for the latter is an advance. Legal Tender notes at 73½@73¾.

Markets.—Butter—sales 450 firkins, good New York State at 34@32c, and 25 do for Western private. Hops—a contract has been concluded for 30 bales of new crop California, at 37½c, and an invoice of 15 bales new crop, Eastern, brought 45c. Oregon Spirits of Turpentine, $1 15 ℔ gallon. Oil—500 gallons, boiled Linseed, ex Silas Fish, at $1 40. Sugar—100 bbls, yellow C at 12¼, 40 half bbls do, 12¼. Spirits—Domestic liquors are held with more confidence, on the strength of private telegraphic dispatches from New York quoting an advance in common whiskeys there to $2 30@2 35. Syrup—50 bbls, Sandwich Islands, sold at 28c. Flour—sales, 1,500 qr and half sacks, part from Oregon, at $5 50@5 75 ℔ bbl for extra, and $5 25 for superfine. Wheat—the market without much change. The receipts are considerably larger, but there appears to be no pressure to sell at the expense of an abatement in figures. Sales since our last of 2,500 sks, No 1, in lots, at $1 70; 300, do, $1 72½; 300, do, choice, $1 75, and 1,000, do, to arrive, at $1 75 ℔ 100 lbs. Barley is in good demand, without change in prices, sales since our last reach 7,200 sks, at $1@1 2½c ℔ 100 lbs, for good feed to prime. Oats, sales 300 sks, at $1 50@1 55 ℔ 100 lbs. Potatoes continued dull, at 55c ℔ 100 lbs, for Bay, and 70c@75c for Mission.

Jobbers generally are doing a fair trade, particularly with Oregon, in view of the low rates of freight to that point, both the old and opposition lines of sailing vessels receiving at $1 50 ℔ ton. There are also considerable shipments to ports on Puget Sound by the bark Harvest Queen which has been chartered to convey to Olympia the purchases recently made by the Indian Agent of Washington Territory together with such other goods as may offer for that port and Seattle &c.

Cleared August 28th, the steamer Sierra Nevada for Portland and bark Mermaid for Port Angelos.

Death in Prison at Eugene.

Eugene, Aug 28.—A man was arrested yesterday evening for drunkenness and disorderly conduct and lodged in jail to await his trial before the Recorder's Court this morning. The City Marshal on entering the jail this morning found him dead. It is not known by what means he came to his death; it is supposed, however, to have been poison. The deceased was an entire stranger here.

Professional Jealousy.

IT HAS BEEN INTIMATED TO ME BY GENTLEMEN whose veracity cannot be doubted that there are certain parties in this city who, envious of my extensive practice, are assailing my reputation as a medical practitioner. In defense of all I have to say is that I trust my reputation [illegible] too high a standing to be injured by any self-styled Doctor or Knight of the Scalpel.

ART MATTERS.—We learn with regret that Mr. Brock, the landscape and portrait painter, [illegible] this part of the country, designs leaving shortly for the East. A number of his paintings are on display this week at Cornelius & Co. When Mr. Brock shall [illegible] people will, we dare say, wonder why they haven't known more of him, and his deserving work. We shall certainly regret his departure. [illegible] the paintings offered to [illegible] the few lines [illegible] speaking at [illegible] Mount Hood. [illegible] picture, which is deserving [illegible] We have never seen [illegible] from the same stand point [illegible] but we have [illegible] by the merchant prince [illegible] have perused an elaborate [illegible] which we published. [illegible] with Brock's that has been hung [illegible] celebrated painter's Mount Hood [illegible] afforded an opportunity to see the picture [illegible] a worthy production and [illegible] at a nominal figure [illegible] has also quite lately been [illegible] the arts in our midst [illegible] attention of ladies. This is the very pretty and [illegible] worsted picture embroidered [illegible] and her daughter late of San Francisco. [illegible] worsted pictures and portraits [illegible] determination to [illegible] the shadows and features [illegible] as in the original, which [illegible] in Oroly, is represented [illegible] merit. [illegible] picture to suggest the temptation [illegible] ripened fruit, as it has a fine mellow appearance. These pictures and very many others are intended for the [illegible] Fair at Salem [illegible] to give them a prominent place [illegible] at the fair hands which wrought them will surely [illegible] The pictures may be seen at the [illegible] Chess House.

ONE OF THE SURVIVORS.—We take the following from the Albany Journal: "Mrs. Mary Ann Tweedale, one of the [illegible] of the wrecked steamer Brother Jonathan, arrived at the residence of her son, Mr. William [illegible] in Albany, on Tuesday evening's stage. Mrs. T. [illegible] returned to San Francisco from Crescent City, and [illegible] again for Portland where she arrived last Sunday morning. Her health is good, considering the awful peril through which she has passed and appalling scenes she has witnessed. Her [illegible] trying minutes that elapsed from the time the [illegible] the fatal rock until the boat she was in got clear of the wreck, is truly wonderful. She saw the other small boats swamped by the [illegible] the fruitless efforts of the women struggling [illegible] the boat against the [illegible] to Portland on the Oriflamme and the [illegible] she received—or rather the manner in which she was [illegible] by the officers of that steamer [illegible] heartless and soulless men. Having lost [illegible] by the wreck, and being worn down by [illegible] and exposure she had undergone [illegible] prepared to endure the voyage [illegible] to Portland, even with the best treatment [illegible] only given steerage passage and not even [illegible] bedding sufficient to make her [illegible] who would knowingly neglect an aged lady under such [illegible] deserve to be published as heartless knaves who are unworthy of the name of [illegible]"

[illegible] DEATH OF ISAAC WALL.—We are requested to publish the following obituary to the memory of Mr. Isaac Wall, who was lost at sea by the wreck of the steamer Brother Jonathan, July 30th, 1865. We quote from the San Francisco Alta of the 15th of August: [illegible] did the writer of this think, when only a [illegible] ago he bade farewell to his dear friend, that he [illegible] so short a time thereafter have to record this [illegible]. The deceased left here for his home in [illegible] a stay of a few short weeks of recreation [illegible] hopes and anticipations. Alas! these were [illegible] realized. Cut down in the bloom of life, [illegible] a moment's warning, the loss is sad to contemplate. The deceased was a young man of rare ability [illegible] exemplary habits; modest and unassuming; a [illegible] a devoted friend; a model young [illegible] only virtues without vices; beloved by [illegible] who [illegible] with or knew him. A better [illegible] mortal was never removed from earth. His [illegible] and friends were justly proud of him. Now [illegible] gone from our midst and we can never more [illegible] and happy countenance. But it was [illegible] of the Almighty, who ruleth the universe, and [illegible] we poor mortals must submit without [illegible]. May He, in His infinite mercy, give strength [illegible] father, to the brothers, sisters, and relatives [illegible] to enable them to bear up under this [illegible] affliction. May He pour healing balm into their [illegible] and console them with the thought that He calls [illegible] to their homes earliest whom He loves best.

[illegible] soul, too soft its ills to bear,
[illegible] left our mortal hemisphere
[illegible] sought in better worlds the meed
[illegible] life by Heaven decreed."

[illegible] IN COURT.—John Gray, A. C. A. D., that [illegible] Citizen of African Descent, was [illegible] from the Recorder's Court yesterday [illegible] of fine and costs imposed upon him [illegible] a [illegible] scrimmage with the Celestials. His opponents, five in number, were [illegible] fined as follows: Ah Schee, the ring [illegible] $16 15; Ah Chung and Ah Schung [illegible] $11 10; Ah Logn $10 05. The [illegible] went to jail, but finally concluded to pay [illegible] which was received and the prisoners discharged [illegible] of the case appear to be about [illegible] of Hop Wo, reported a few days since. The [illegible] bundle for the purpose of obtaining [illegible] took [illegible] of the bundle and was [illegible] leaving an equivalence, when the [illegible] him, and gave him a pounding. One of [illegible] whistle, which attracted the police and the [illegible] were hustled off to jail. The [illegible] not clear as to the actions of Gray, he might [illegible] not have transacted his part fairly, but [illegible] it was a Sunday row, and the whole of them [illegible]. The Chinamen, in giving their evidence, [illegible] which would serve their purpose, and [illegible] fully that their oath is not reliable [illegible] be right under the constitution of this [illegible] an action against a white citizen for the [illegible] etc., gave rise to a discussion [illegible] but it was irrelevant to subject—a case [illegible] being tried in a Justices' Court [illegible] in which a Chineman had established [illegible] a negro for wages. [illegible] CURIOUS.—The world will be astonished [illegible] that the Shenandoah was towed into this port [illegible] by the Loyal Ellsworth and now lies [illegible] near the foot of Hall street. It was [illegible] circumstance, a striking coincidence that [illegible] little cutter, named in honor of the loyal [illegible] who fell at Alexandria, the first martyr in the [illegible] for the maintenance of Republican institutions [illegible] of the last rebel pirate [illegible] that she might rot and become unknown [illegible] legends of future historians. The craft [illegible] by the fine little steamer, looked very [illegible] she had seen better days and was at one [illegible] People rushed to the river bank [illegible] up in front of the city, and others [illegible] to meet her, a long distance above the business [illegible] of the town, when her true [illegible] and it proved to be no rebel pirate [illegible] but [illegible] a tobacco house on a flat boat.

[illegible] HALL.—The thirteenth session of this College [illegible] at Milwaukie will commence on Tuesday the 5th of Sept. [illegible], under the direction of Miss Jane Gray as Principal. The Institution has been known [illegible] some years for its advantages as a school for young ladies, and under the management of Miss Gray is very successful. She will be assisted in the coming session by an able and [illegible] corps of teachers rendering the future quite as much of value to the students as has been [illegible] past. Circulars with terms can be obtained by addressing Miss Gray, at Milwaukie.

[illegible] GALA DAY.—There is considerable preparation being made among the [illegible] of the [illegible] on Monday next, their first annual parade. The [illegible] almost, we understand, contemplate turning out to do honor to the occasion. The O. S. N. Company's new warehouse will be brought [illegible] dinner exercises. The new [illegible] Ladder Company, which [illegible] last evening, will make its first appearance in the procession on that day.

INJUNCTION GRANTED.—[illegible] yesterday served an injunction on the [illegible] of the Fresh ferry boat issued by the Circuit Court [illegible] is that there [illegible] no lawful license for the running of the same. The Court held that the license granted by the County Commissioners to Wm. H. Frush terminated with his death, some two months since. The boat was [illegible] the east bank of the river.

MOFFETT'S FRONT.—The new brick of Mr. Walter Moffett, building above [illegible] on Front street, will be a very [illegible] edifice. The front is of iron for the [illegible] story, the second story of pressed brick, and the front of plaster of paris [illegible] as creditable a piece of work as can be produced in Oregon.

THE TARGET EXCURSION.—The steamer chartered for the excursion will leave the Lincoln House wharf to-morrow at 9 o'clock A. M. We are indebted to the Company for the favor of "Complimentaries" and shall endeavor to attend, but it [illegible] that we leave the city.

DIRECT IMPORTATIONS.—The steamer Oneida brought a large batch of Celestials on the Saturday trip of last week, direct from China. They arrived by the way of Victoria, Puget Sound and Monticello.

Letter from Eagle District

EAGLE CITY, Aug. 15th, 1865.

EDS. OREGONIAN:

It is a long time since you have received an item from this precinct; and whilst the mineral discoveries of other districts are widely circulated through the medium of your columns, the important and extensive discoveries of this immediate locality are unheard of. The placer diggings of this and adjacent camps are reduced to the standard of common place, owing to the scarcity of water. As an instance of the richness of placer deposits here, we would state that as high as forty ounces per day have been taken out by Mr. Harkleroads who works a claim in a neighboring gulch, but such claims are an exception to the general rule. Rich placer diggings both in hill and gulch abound here, but the impossibility of getting water upon them renders placer mining a mere stand. Notwithstanding the want of facilities to develop the placer interests of this locality, the prospect of an early development of quartz interests are A No. 1.

In this district have been discovered the Hoosier, Mountain Queen, Buck's, Chickeman and other ledges which, so far as prospected, promise the most favorable results. Hoosier, Parker & Co. have a five stamp mill in process of erection to test the relative value of these ledges, and which will be in operation in less than a month from this time. This company have erected the frame-work of their mill sufficiently large and strong to accommodate ten heavy stamps, which will be put in operation next spring at an early day. As an evidence of the merit of quartz in this region, we would state that hundreds of specimens of floating quartz have been subjected to the test of the mortar, and in not one single instance has the test failed in producing numerous colors, and in many instances, paying prospects. We understand that preparations are being made to work several ledges at Hogem, twelve miles to the westward from here, but as we are wanting in information as relates to their extent or richness, we have no opinion to offer. At a point seven miles to the northwest of here, the Pioneer Quartz Mining Company have discovered several ledges that bid fair to successfully compare in richness with those of Owyhee and South Boise. A shaft sunk on the Empire ledge proves it to be rich in both silver and gold—an assay made from rock but a few feet below the surface, reaching $275 to the ton, whilst the Great Western and Key Stone in the immediate vicinity promise equally as favorable in results, so far as prospected. These ledges are situated convenient to water and abundant timber, and when thoroughly prospected will offer inducements to capital unprecedented. The Pioneer Company meets on the first of next month to effect a more permanent organization, and to levy assessments to thoroughly test the value of their extensive claims. Mr. Dane, the discoverer of the "Key Stone" has written to capitalists East, who have promised to secure and forward machinery to develop and work his interest. We are no prophet, neither would we recommend any one to visit this "played out" camp, but reasoning from cause to effect, we are of opinion that the prospective destiny of this region, as a quartz mining district, is second to none. It only needs the judicial investment of capital to culminate it a success of the highest order. In a few weeks, when the mill above referred to gets in operation, we will give you something more tangible.

We are favored with a weekly express running from Union to this place; and through the politeness of your gentlemanly subscriber, Squire Israel, we receive the regular numbers of the OREGONIAN which are a decided treat to your correspondent in his temporary sojourn here. The uncompromising Union sentiment of your journal suits the true blues of this and other points. The cowardly traitors of our country are quite tender in their sympathies for Jeff. Davis & Co., but when poor old monomaniac John Brown undertook the bloodless organization of a provisional government and was executed by that infernal arch-traitor Wise, they raised their hands in exultation and cried amen; but now when the murderers of John Brown follow in his footsteps and perpetrate outrages against the nation and humanity ten thousand fold greater, these enemies of our government cry revolution—spare the heroes!

Now we are willing to make due allowance for the ignorance and delusion of the masses who engaged in the rebellion South, and to extend to them corresponding leniency; but to Davis and his legion of titled murderers and assassins, we have no palliative word to offer. They assassinated Mercy in the private box of Ford's Theatre, and now let them have the full [illegible] of Justice. Like Kidd, the pirate, they deserve to hang in irons; yes! 'till the flesh drops from their skeletons and the sighing winds of evening whistle Yankee Doodle through their dry bones. Mercy to fiends in human form is cruelty and injustice to the true and the good. The Union is marble, the Rebellion is dust.

UNION.

REPORTED ATTEMPT TO POISON PRESIDENT LINCOLN AND SECRETARY STANTON.—The Washington correspondent of the Pittsburg Chronicle writes as follows in a recent letter:

I have talked with an intelligent colored woman who says "she was in the crowd at Secretary Stanton's door on the evening of the assassination; that she was in the charge of several children, and to prevent their being hurt placed them in the angle formed by the steps and wall of the house, so that she and they were almost behind Stanton while he stood on the steps speaking to the people; that a man in a heavy, dark coat, with his hat drawn over his face, edged his way in among the children, and kept moving his head from side to side as if trying to get a good look at Stanton, while he kept his right hand down at his side and she thought he had a pistol in it. She became alarmed and spoke aloud to a colored man near, asking him to come and stand between her and this man, for he had a pistol. The colored man came and took the position she desired, and the other moved off. The story was hard to believe, but her daughter stated that she came home that evening quite excited, saying there was a 'specious character in the crowd, and she thought he wanted to shoot Stanton." I have reason to believe that Stanton knew of this, and expected to the last that she would be examined before the Commission.

On a visit to Mrs. Lincoln, the day she left for Chicago, I said to her that I had always expected slavery would poison Lincoln as it did Presidents Harrison and Taylor. The idea appeared new to her, and recalled the fact that her husband had been very ill, for several days, from the effects of a dose of blue pills taken shortly before his second inauguration. She said he was not well, and appearing to require his usual medicine, blue, she sent to the drug store in which Mr. Harrold was employed last and got a dose and gave them to him at night before going to bed, and that next morning his pallor terrified her.

"His face," said she, pointing to the bed beside which she sat, "was white as that pillow case, as it lay just there," she exclaimed, laying her hand on the pillow—"white, and such a deadly white, as he tried to rise he sank back again quite overcome."

She described his anxiety to be up, there was so much to do, and her persistence and his oppressive langour in keeping him in bed for several days, said he and she both thought it so strange that the pills should affect him in that way, they never had done so before, and both concluded they would get no more medicine there, as the attendant evidently did not understand making up prescriptions. Could this have been the time spoken of in that letter produced on the trial, in which it is said the cup had failed once?

I know an officer's widow who spent some time with her husband in Georgia while General Mitchell was in command. She has told me of a pretended Union woman, in a small town where they were stationed, who kept a boarding-house for Union officers, of the large number of invalids among these boarders, and her especially remarking the excessive and peculiar pallor of these invalids. Soon the number of deaths attracted attention, and an investigation was ordered of the charge that this female fiend had been poisoning her boarders. While the case was pending some order changed the troops occupying the town, and my informant never learned how the matter ended, but her description of the pallor of the victims so coincides with Mrs. Lincoln's account of our Martyr's appearance after taking of the blue pills that it has occurred to me these monsters may have some peculiar method of poisoning. Moreover, it is highly probable that our political assassinations are not yet over.

A conversation was overheard the latter part of last month, on a dark night, between a knot of men who distinctly detailed a plan for shooting President Johnson on the Fourth. The speakers were to station themselves at different points in the crowd, and while he should be speaking at Gettysburg, at a signal, fire simultaneously. This conversation was promptly reported to Colonel Baker by Judge Day, who told me of the fact.

The person who heard it was a colored man, late a slave, who knew of Judge Day as the slaves' lawyer, and unburdened himself to him of her great secret. After he had reduced her statement to writing he sent her with it to Colonel Baker. An intelligent white woman on the evening after the execution overheard one man say to another that "the d—d, blue legged Yankees had not made much of the conspiracy out, and were not done with it yet."

Such conversations have been by no means uncommon here during the past four years, and that against Lincoln's life attracted but little attention here once, but such threats seek the cover of darkness now.

THE FRIGATE CONGRESS.—The frigate Congress, sunk by the rebel ram Merrimac, [illegible] to be raised. Workmen are now engaged upon her. They have raised 42 guns, and a large quantity of tackle and furniture already.

A letter from St. Paul, Minnesota, says a pack of bloodhounds have been brought to that city from Tennessee. They are to be used by the troops in hunting the refractory Indians. Parties have gone to Mississippi for a further supply. This is a piece of barbarism that is disgraceful to the country.

FALSE DELICACY.—The friends of those who are troubled with bad breath and the ugly [illegible] dislike to refer to it. Fifty five hundred physicians use them in their practice to the exclusion of other purgatives. The first letter of their value is not yet appreciated. When they are better known sudden death and continued sickness will be of the past. Let those who know them speak right out in their favor. It is a duty which will save life. Our races are subject to [illegible] dual cure. Disorder bile at this season would be as dangerous as it is prevalent, but Brandreth's Pills afford an invaluable and efficient protection. By their occasional use we prevent the collection of those impurities which, when in sufficient quantities, cause so much danger to the body's health. Condition of the South Views of a Refugee

[illegible] New York T[illegible]

M[illegible] July 1st [illegible] the same [illegible] through the night [illegible] the city and mingle with the [illegible] the [illegible] of the street, listen to the words of the passers by, converse with the man of business at [illegible] the present and prob[illegible] future with the lawyer in his [illegible] the thoughts of the physician as he passes in his [illegible] important interests with the intelligent [illegible] planter and among them all it is [illegible], there is peace. [illegible] as there is peace, for I see not as in the [illegible] a begrimed [illegible] young soldier [illegible] our ranks, [illegible] hear the tramp of armed hosts hastening to distant battle field. Musket [illegible] and cannon are now only in the [illegible] [illegible] who march to the notes of freedom. But is this a peace of exhaustion and force simply, or may we accept it as a peace carrying with it all the holy and subduing influences which gather around that word when used in its sublimest sense?

Habits of thought, political opinions, principles of act[illegible] in the mold and growth of more than two [illegible] are seldom unlearned or relinquished in a [illegible] [illegible] the result of [illegible] [illegible] social and material elements which for so many years have given distinctive[illegible] [illegible] The [illegible] character of a people [illegible] deep an impress from their institutions [illegible] [illegible] into new channels. Slavery, in its mental [illegible] political influences, has not only intimate ana[illegible]logies to, but many points of identity with feudal[illegible]ism. The student of history will remember that the force and impress of feudalism remained a power in the affairs of Europe a long time after the institution as a distinct organization had passed away. It is not wise, then, in our approaches to that point, where those lately in arms against liberty are to be reinstated in an unre[illegible]stricted franchise, to disregard the lessons of the past, nor forget that the South has as yet but the ideas and education peculiar to the South. The sword has indeed won its victories. It remains to [illegible] in another field and by other means all the elements that enter into the erroneous civilization of the South.

There has been no advance step taken by the South toward this civil consummation. The leaders of public action, the moral and political power of the South, accept only this—the power and triumph of the Union army. Beyond this there is no acknowledgment, no concession. The South still belongs to the South. No Government has the right to dictate to her a policy, and every foot of progress in the subjugation of the South was a violation of the Constitution. The establishing Provisional Governments, they say, is an act of military power violative of the State rights and the Federal compact. These Governments are popular because they are the channels through which the disenthrallment of the States is to be effected. Nothing is decided in the four years' contest but the simple matter of military puissance. State sovereignty, slavery and all kindred issues are as before the war. The Government of Tennessee, offices and officers under it, are a usurpation to be trampled under foot when the people get into power.

Such is the grand outline of things social and things political in the subjugated States. They present space and material enough for years of angry debate and fierce agitation. Those who hold the great interests of the country in their hands may well hesitate and wait the development of events before the final policy is decided upon.

Here come an opulent planter, a successful merchant, an astute lawyer. They are Democrats and Secessionists. We speak of the great question of the day. They are hopeful of the future, have no doubt but the Democrats will again get into power and rule the country. The votes of the South, with the Democratic vote of the North, would push the present dominant party out and give the Government to the only constitutional party. My three friends are excited and shake their fists defiantly toward Washington when we speak of the present peace. Now we speak of the blacks. Bitter invective follows. "The black a man! What clause in the Constitution gives the right to take my property from me? The Yank is pestilent and interfering—we can take care of our own interests, [illegible]." A fourth gentleman joins us, direct from the interior of Georgia, in the neighborhood of Meriwether county. "Well, what of the blacks in your State?" "Why, we do not exactly think the negroes are free. They very generally remain on the plantations; sometimes they run away, but the Provost Marshal puts them in jail, and when the masters go for them he gives them up, when they are whipped a little and taken home again. We heard that General Gillmore had been removed in disgrace for issuing that order by which the negro should get wages for his labor. President Johnson is a Southern man and knows what we want. Negroes won't work when they are free." Three more from West Tennessee join us—planters. They are especially in a bad humor. Each has a large plantation. They have a great deal of trouble with their negroes, they are so impudent and insubordinate. "But, sirs, have you informed your blacks of their freedom under the law?" "No, not I—for I am not so sure about that in the end. When we, the Democrats, get the power, we'll go back to our Constitution. Brownlow's Government won't [illegible]."

"But what about the impudence and insubordination of your hands? Do they refuse to work or threaten violence?" "Oh, no, not that—but the rascals demand wages for their work." "What are your politics, gentlemen?" "We are Democrats, and believe in secession, and are opposed to violating the Constitution, or making war on the Southern States." I pass on, and soon meet with a friend with whom I have had daily intercourse in Alabama for twenty years. He is a clear thinker, and has so much of the man in his character that he can reason dispassionately, even on all the topics involving the interests of the South. He tells me that the great question is still the negro question. It is such a wrong, the Alabamians say, to take away their slaves. The Constitution gives no such power. They hope [illegible] are not so desperate. They think it pay [illegible] this [illegible] institution may not fall altogether; are [illegible] anxious for the poor negro, who may [illegible] a worthless vagabond. It is very cruel to [illegible] the slave, he cannot but be demoralised. "But what are your sentiments?" "My opinion is, that the South should rejoice at the freedom of the blacks, and co-operate with the Government in its human designs towards them. For myself, I feel a degree of pride and elevation that I no longer own slaves." Even in K[illegible]ky the Times can learn of but two live men. The people of this State are remarkable for a muscular mentality and those whom I meet here from that State are certain that the Constitutional Amendment will not pass the Legislature—its passage would be a last violation of State rights.

Thus I learn the feelings of the slave States, Southwest and South, the people think that in some way, through the aid of the Democrats of the North, by the unconstitutionality of the emancipation proclamation, by the power of the States over every municipal question and interest, slavery in spirit and profit, if not in form, is still to be preserved to the South. It is not singular or strange, and yet it is both singular and strange that these things are so. That slavery should maintain its power on the pride and passions of the South is no marvel, but that the logic of disastrous war and defeated rebellion has failed to instruct the reason of the people is marvelous and appeals to the powers at Washington to make sure that their feet are not on the hot ashes of a partially smothered volcano when the open assurance may be that all is peace and safety. I do not believe, however, that physical resistance to the Government of the nation is at present intended. But the question of slavery unmet, no provisions for its total abolition embodied in the new Constitutions to be adopted by the revolted States, how long before the Freedman's Bureau, in its official action, would be limited to the property and Territories of the United States and as the military power of the nation [illegible] between State legislation and the interests and freedom of the blacks. I speak of the Democracy. I myself am a Democrat, and am kindly disposed toward Democracy, which I have ever been taught should look to the great interests of the Union. But when I see on every side evidences of combination between men in the North and yet disfranchised men in the South to supplant the great issues of victory and plant anew the [illegible] of slavery, I cannot be silent. I cannot learn that personal and sectional antag[illegible] as against the North, its people and the [illegible] I am [illegible] the representative classes here. There are exceptions and upon this noble few [illegible] through the South [illegible] Government [illegible] its administrative movements toward the restoration [illegible] people.

Grant's Bravery.—A recent sketch of General Grant has the following:

"The difference between Grant and myself," said General Sherman, "is this: I fear no danger that I can see, and Grant fears none that he can't see." His courage was self-contained. As he himself on a [illegible] after the explosion of a shell near his tent had scattered his staff, who returned [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] did never get excited.

[illegible] the Stonewall. The [illegible] correspondence [illegible] taken place in relation to the Stonewall:

TASSARA TO SEWARD.

Washington, July 14, 1865.

The undersigned, Minister Plenipotentiary of Her Catholic Majesty, has the honor to bring to the knowledge of the Honorable the Secretary of State, that agreeably to official communications which he has received from Madrid, the order has been given to the Captain General of Cuba to deliver the St[illegible] to the person whom the United States Government may commission for that purpose, the due formalities [illegible]. In thus acting the Government of Her Majesty judges that the reasons adduced in the note of the 6th of May [illegible] sufficient [illegible] and the right of revindication which that of the United States believes it has over the [illegible] vessel. Animated, nevertheless, by the same noble and loyal sentiments which have been shown during the four years of the war happily terminated in those unhappy [illegible] interfering not [illegible] with out [illegible] and the Stonewall is placed at the disposal of the Government of the United States. With reference to the security for the expenses to the commander of the Stonewall of [illegible],000 which sum having been considered as the sole and especial sum of the surrender of the vessel [illegible] [illegible] that the Government of the United States will not refuse to [illegible] [illegible] nevertheless that this is not a condition for the delivery of the Stonewall which delivery is [illegible] [illegible] The undersigned avails himself of this occasion to [illegible] the Honorable Secretary of State the assurance of his highest consideration.

GABRIEL G. TASSARA.

To the Honorable the Secretary of State of the United States, etc.

SEWARD TO TASSARA.

Department of State,
Washington, July 17, 1865.

The undersigned, Secretary of State of the United States, has the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a note which was addressed to him on the 14th instant, by Tassara, Minister Plenipotentiary of the Queen of Spain. In that note Tassara informs the undersigned that her Catholic Majesty has ordered that the armed steam vessel, called the Stonewall, which has been the subject of previous correspondence between the two countries, shall be delivered up to the Government of the United States, and that this decision has been made with a waiver of discussion upon the question whether the demand of the United States for the surrender could be maintained upon the strict principles of international law.

Tassara's communication has been submitted to the President of the United States, and the undersigned has now the pleasure to inform Tassara that orders will be promptly given for the bringing away of the Stonewall from Havana, and for the reimbursement of the sum of $16,000 to the Spanish Government. It only remains to be added that this government appreciates equally the promptness, the liberality and the courtesy which have marked the proceedings of Her Catholic Majesty's Government on this interesting subject, and that these proceedings will have a strong tendency to confirm and perpetuate the ancient and traditional friendships of the two nations.

The undersigned avails himself of this occasion to offer Tassara renewed assurances of his high consideration.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

To Don Gabriel Garcia G. Tassara, Minister Plenipotentiary, etc., etc.

Resemblance of the Trio of Assassins to Animals.—Mrs. Swisshelm thus writes from Washington to the Pittsburg Chronicle respecting the three assassins who have paid the penalty of their crimes:

You know, of course, the speculative philosophy which claims to trace a resemblance between every human being and some species of animals. I never saw three people together who so strongly illustrate this philosophy as the three male assassins who were executed last week. I think I could not have passed Harrold in the street without mentally exclaiming "ape." I have been often in the drug store he attended and once, as he was putting up a small package for me, I became so interested in noticing his apish ways that I caught myself on the eve of saying aloud, "You monkey," and found it necessary to make some remark to hide the thought I had so nearly expressed. When on trial, before I had recognized him as one I had seen elsewhere, that same thought came, "What an ape." And strange his character, as given on trial, had the fidelity and cunning of the ape.

Payne, on the other hand, was all bovine. Once a party of hunters described to me a buffalo hunt, in which they had been engaged three days before in Dacotah. They were eloquent in their account of a Sorrowful bull, who stood to defend his dominion, while his family fled in dismay. They told of his charge first at one and then another of his would-be captors, and of the disdain with which he shook their bullets out of his matted frontlet. I had not thought of the scene for years until I saw Payne sitting fearless among his captors, and the whole picture then came up like a flash. The swell of the powerful muscles of the neck, spreading out to the shoulder, tapering in the jaw—the form of the spinal column from the waist to the top of the head, straight as an arrow, without that swell behind the ear which is said to indicate social affection in the human head—the large, projecting jaws—the jutting brows, sloping forehead and prominence above, and a little back of the ears; but especially the large, pale, gray eyes with their spot of white light, was the monarch of the prairie. His peculiar motion in tossing aside his hair added greatly to this resemblance, and I could well believe his assertion of no malice against Seward. He simply had a fierce delight in conflict, had been trained to believe that Seward was trespassing on his grazing lands—his divine right of owning and flogging his own slave, and charged at his pursuer as the wild buffalo on the plain.

Atzerott was a panther, the form and carriage of the head, the small green eyes, the motion of his hands, the very atmosphere around him spoke craftiness, deep and low, cruelty, and cowardice. Whatever he did or proposed to do, was for some immediate personal benefit. He could only spring for prey when he felt assured of success.

Honor to General Wright.—Major General McDowell has issued the following general order:

Headquarters Department of California, San Francisco, Cal., August 17, 1865.—[General Orders, No. 8.]—It is the painful duty of the Major General Commanding the Department to announce the death of Brigadier General George Wright, U. S. Volunteers, Brevet Brigadier General U. S. Army, and Colonel of the Ninth U. S. Infantry, recently in command of the District of California and formerly in command of the Department of the Pacific, who was lost on the 30th of July last, in the wreck of the steamer Brother Jonathan whilst on the way to assume command of the Department of the Columbia, to which he had been assigned by the President.

General Wright graduated at West Point and entered the army as Second Lieutenant of the Third Infantry, July 1, 1822. He was brevetted Major, March 15, 1842, "for meritorious conduct in zeal, energy and perseverance in the war against the Florida Indians," brevetted Lieutenant Colonel, August 20, 1847, "for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battles of Contreras and Cherubusco, Mexico," brevetted Colonel, September 8, 1847, "for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battle of Molino del Rey, Mexico," where he was severely wounded, and brevetted Brigadier General, December 19, 1864, "for long, faithful and meritorious services."

He was so long and prominently connected with this section of the United States and had, by the exercise of every high quality which distinguishes a gentleman and a soldier, by his gallant services in the field and his administration of the Department of the Pacific in the dark days of the rebellion, so established himself in the respect, the affections, the confidence and gratitude of the good people of the Pacific coast, that his loss is felt to be what it truly is—a public calamity.

As there seems to be no longer any hope of recovering his remains from the ocean and [illegible] them the customary honor the following honors to his memory will be paid on the day next succeeding the receipt of this order at each military post within his late command: The National flag will be displayed at half mast from sunrise to sunset. Thirteen minute guns will be fired, commencing at meridian, and the officers and soldiers of the Ninth Regiment United States Infantry will wear the customary badge of mourning for thirty days. By command of Maj. Gen. McDowell.

R. [illegible], Assistant Adjutant General.

The Height of Waves.—In 1848, during March [illegible] the steamer [illegible] in a hard gale from W. S. W., Dr. Scoresby made some investigations in regard to the height of waves with the following result: Average highest altitude 43 feet; mean distance between waves 5[illegible]0 feet; width from crest to crest, 600 feet; time between the waves and the next [illegible] seconds; velocity of the waves per hour, 32½ miles.

Said a very high functionary to his scapegrace son: "Look at me. Here am I at the top of the tree; and what is my reward? Why, when I die, my son is the greatest rascal in England." To this was answer of young Hopewell: "Yes, dad, [illegible] you die [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]"

Preserving Fruits.—Since the [illegible] of the new process of preserving the [illegible] of fruits, with little or no sugar, in air tight vessels, a great variety [illegible] self-sealing can [illegible] have been [illegible] Many of the [illegible] [illegible] the family, and upon which the labor [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] frequently become defective and admit the air, after having been [illegible] few, if any, of them have proved just what we want. A correspondent [illegible] says:

"I have tried [illegible] of all the various [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] will be little used [illegible] played.

Recently I have seen fruits put up in [illegible] such a [illegible] so simple and so easily performed by any member of the [illegible] [illegible] to your readers. The fruit [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] years has kept [illegible] put up in the self-sealing cans or jars [illegible] render the preservation [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] ments upon the plan. First I would close the jar with a cork before putting [illegible] vent any moisture coming in contact with the [illegible] [illegible] See [illegible] into which the [illegible] proper [illegible] [illegible] in separately, making the cut [illegible] larger so as to extend a little below the [illegible] of the jar [illegible] both left in the [illegible] together and at last I would cover the whole with a thin coat of shellac or gum arabic. The process is so simple [illegible] more easily prepared than any I have seen practiced. I have eaten fruit [illegible] up along with two thicknesses of paper that has been put up more than a year [illegible] as fresh as that put up yesterday, but the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in such matters, and the addition of the cork is [illegible] an improvement."

A Cow that Drank Eighteen Gallons of Whisky.—The Troy (New York) [illegible] gives the most remarkable case of beastly intoxication:

It seems that in the upper part of Green Island an illicit whisky still existed, until yesterday, when Marshal Kipp, Collector Woodward and Inspector Fales made a raid on the premises, and looked up both the owner and the [illegible]. A month ago the distillery was in full blast. It was a "still" night, and the man running the machine, who had made eighteen gallons of whisky, put it out to the open air to cool. Along came a cow. She was thirsty and the beverage looked inviting. She swallowed every drop—eighteen gallons of unrectified whisky, warranted to kill at forty rods. That cow has been drunk ever since. She staggered home, and is now in the fourth week of a grand old bender. The cow eats nothing, falls down whenever they try to raise her up, and has become as lean as a crow, instead of a cow. Whether the cow will ever get sober, or [illegible] her life in a fit of delirium tremens is a question that we shall look anxiously to see the solution of. It is really a remarkable case, and we should hardly believe it if our informant was not connected with the telegraph and, of course, perfectly reliable.

Secretary Stanton, Gen. Ord and Gen. Lee.—The following statement has been published. The falseness of the accusation it exposes, sorts well with many of the malevolent and foolish things said concerning Secretary Stanton.

The arrest of Gen. Lee, the Petersburg, Virginia, News says, was ordered by Secretary Stanton. Gen. Ord, in command at Richmond, offered his resignation rather than execute the order. Gen. Grant interfered and the arrest was recalled. This statement is followed by comments reflective upon Secretary Stanton.

In a communication from Major General E. O. C. Ord, dated Detroit, July 15th, referring to the above, he says: "The whole statement is false. No such order was ever issued, and had it been issued my duty would have been to obey. The statement which leads to the inference that I declined to obey an order because I thought it unpleasant, improper or uncalled for, is unfounded in fact, and in principle a severe and unjust reflection upon me as a soldier, and not upon Secretary Stanton."
